

Second submission to correct Last Name on cover sheet..Adams..

-Imagine that all the TV viewers in the USA began to flood the FCC with complaints that most TV shows cut off right before the end of a program or the words heard were delayed and not in sync with the actors mouth movements or they couldn't even hear the audio on some programs. Would the FCC step in to ensure these rampant errors were corrected and that TV stations were held accountable for their services to their viewers? My guess is "Yes" if the errors were committed as a rule and not an exception. The impact of poorly regulated or enforced captioning procedures on TV affects over 28 million hard of hearing and deaf folks in the USA. The FCC must work to resolve a problem that affects over 10% of our population. The hard working, tax paying deaf and hard of hearing community deserves the same assistance that is afforded all of our citizens whenever an appeal for assistance is made. The FCC was created specifically for this reason. Please remember how much citizens rely on you to do the right thing. Thank you, sincerely , Janet M. Adams
